About the Seminar:

Positive thinking through Yoga & Meditation is the need of era .However we are going through very tough time of this CoVid-19 phase, where very second the feeling of losing is around us. As we are in lockdown for 2 year of time.

Thoughts are impenetrable, intangible, and personal, but they have enormous power to shape your life. According to studies from the University of Southern California's Laboratory of Neuro Imaging, you have up to 70,000 thoughts per day, happy and negative, compassionate and hurtful. Thoughts can make you feel hopeful and connected, as well as fearful and alone. They either makes you believe you're capable of great things or that you'll never amount to anything because you're helpless. Henry Ford, the inventor and vehicle pioneer, remarked, "Whether you think you can, or you think you can't, you're right."

Your body's reaction to your thoughts gives them a lot of power and influence. Your body responds to every idea you have, whether it's "I'm capable" or "I'm helpless," by secreting hormones that affect your entire nervous system. When you believe you are being threatened (for example, if you suspect someone is breaking into your home), your body releases cortisol to prepare you to fight or flee. Imagine yourself thoroughly relaxed (maybe snuggling with a cherished pet); in this state, your body creates oxytocin and serotonin, feel-good hormones that make you feel safe and secure.

So it stands to reason that if you can modify your perspective or change your thinking so that your thoughts are more positive, your body will respond by making you feel more cheery and connected to the world around you. It may appear simple, but genuinely changing your beliefs needs a great deal of focus, commitment, and courage. When it comes to working with your thoughts. Your initial inclination may be to flee when you see that giant cat, but you should actually stand your ground and make yourself appear large in the face of the feline threat.—it will almost certainly pursue you. For example, "I'm powerless" and "I'm helpless" are two examples of negative thinking.

PRINCIPAL

Through Meditation learning you try to calm your body and mind, your physical and emotional stress can melt away by Yoga. This leaves you feeling better, refreshed, and ready to face the challenges of your day with a healthy attitude. With regular practice over weeks or months, you can experience even greater benefits.

Dr. Venkatesh R. Kabde sir , President, Nanded Education Society's, Nanded - In his presidential address he encouraged the Awareness activities in institutions among the young researchers ,even he lay stress of Positive Thinking through Yoga & Meditation Every situation demands a different kind of response. If you develop attitudes of positive thinking, it may work well in one situation. But in another kind of situation you will do stupid things, because you have a prejudiced idea that you have to be in a certain way. If you go on thinking positive at the wrong place, the worst things may happen to you. There is no need to be positive. There is no need to be negative, either. Just be aware. If you are aware, you will perceive a situation just the way it is. When you perceive a situation the way it is, you can act to the best of your intelligence and capability. It is as simple as that. One Day National Seminar on Positive Thinking through Yoga & Meditation inaugurated.
